6. Larry Houston buzzed to say that in connection with Mr. McCone's reception he thought that Mr. McCone might be briefed on the number of people in captivity and what is being done about their release. He also suggested that we might set up a permanent committee to meet periodically to see whether anything could be done about their release. We are inclined to do quite a lot on the Powers case, [redacted] and others and to more or less resign ourselves to the unhappy fact that people like Downey and Fecteau will never be released. I told him that I thought his point was well taken and that it would be good to come forth with such a recommendation.
